

Could you write a science story?

It could be imagining what happened when the forces quit. Imagine being at school or home when gravity stopped working. What might happen?

It could be a story that teaches about magnets, light, shadows or sound.

You could write the story down yourself or tell it to a grown up at home and they could write it down for you. You could even illustrate your story too.

Once you've written your story, return it to your school by Friday 4th April.
