

Dear Parents/Carers,

Following on from last year's 'What is a scientist?' competition, this year the Ogden Trust is running a story writing competition. In school, the children heard the story of Gary Vity about a girl who discovers the force of gravity.

We would like the children to create a science story. It could be about magnets, light, shadows, sound or any other scientific concept. They can write it themselves or tell it to an adult to write for them.

The competition is open to all children in school.

The closing date for entries is Friday 4th April. Please put your entry in the post box.

We look forward to seeing all the fantastic entries!

Kind regards,

Miss Jackson
